Then follow the type of the spectrum and its photographic magnitude, and a table of the differences between this last value and the Bonn, Argentine, and Harvard magnitudes respectively. The types of spectra upon which the classification is based are not precisely those of Secchi, or of any other previous grouping, since certain grades of difference were readily recognised in the part of the spectrum most easily photographed--viz., the violet--which escaped notice in that part which is brightest to the eye. Instead, therefore, of Secchi's four types, no fewer than 16 classes are adopted, which are distinguished by letters of the alphabet.
